The Triangle
1963

The Tatnall School, Wilmington, Delaware

Foreword

The 1963 Triangle staff has taken the liberty of mirroring its impressions of this year's Seniors as they slowly tread their way from September to the "caps and gowns". While your conceptions of them may differ from ours, no one can doubt the lasting effect the girls have had on Tatnall's hallowed halls, and certainly no one will forget the sad exit of the daisy-girls.

Dear Class of 1963:

When I first came to Wilmington, there was an official date for all moving--March 25. People must not have changed their dwelling places very often in those days, for I have no memory of streets cluttered with moving vans, furniture piled at curbs, service men dashing around connecting stoves and refrigerators and telephones.

Moving Day for me was last September 10, when I came DOWN the hill to live in the UPPER school. What good neighbors you, the residents of Room 200, have been! I shall miss you, now that your Moving Day, June 11, has arrived.

With Robert Frost, you are saying:

"Unless I'm wrong
I but obey
The urge of a song:
I'm - bound - away!"

Your new houses will be in many climates; they will all be larger. May the songs in them be sweet, carrying overtones of a melody you have sung in this house:

"Lord, keep us kind through all our days . . . ."

Josephine G. Myers

SUSAN KAY BAKALAR

A new Sue entered the Senior Room this fall with a new feature and long fingernails. As always, her petite figure was still the envy of us all. First to enter the Senior Room every morning, she can be seen frantically studying physics amidst the confusion of "Twist and Shout". If we can't find her in Room 200 on Monday morning, we just glance across the hall to the music room because it's Sue's day to "tickle the ivories". Every other morning we are brought up to date on the latest episode of Mary Lou accompanied by Susan's notorious high-pitched giggle. Hardly a day goes by when some poor senior hasn't given up on her math homework and rushes to Sue; her knack for solving the most complex problems demonstrates her superior ability. Because of her intense dislike for nourishment, Sue is always able to fit into her neatly self-tailored skirts. In all probability, Sue will follow in her sister's footsteps to Delaware next fall, and she will be a success wherever she goes.

ALICE CAROLINE BALDWIN

Alice

Alice has been with us many years, but the memory most of us have of her is her appearance two Septembers ago with long, blond hair. Since then, she's been the envy of the class. We've borne with her through crash diets, American Government tests, and poster-making, enjoying every minute of it. Of course, there is nothing so risky as saying that Picasso is a big joke, because in no time at all her enthusiasm will have bowled you over, and "Guernica" will be your favorite picture. As a matter of fact, Alice's enthusiasm and tenacity are two of her main attributes, and have helped her to bear up many times where the rest of us have buckled under the strain. "Alice, where are you going? Upstairs to take a bath?" No, she's off to the art department. Whether she's tackling a football poster, Picasso, or one of her own creations, it's always with real zest and enjoyment. Certainly Delaware should be glad to have Alice, and she will contribute as much to college as she has to our Senior Class.

LYNN PAXTON BURROUGH

"Lynnie-Poo", ever since she returned from Europe to enter the eleventh grade, has taken a leading position in the class. What would we do without her to raise our class average, to arrange dances, to show us "Avon" products? Her only periods of depression occur when she staggers out of German class with an expression of numbed shock, mouthing something about Mr. Foster's tests. However, lunchtime soon arrives, and with it comes a real treat for the class - our honorary male "senior". Lynn is remarkable for many skills, not the least of which is sneaking cookies from the children's ward, or dashing off a 3,500 word theme over the weekend. We're sure Lynn will always be grateful for her exposure to snow in Switzerland, for it has prepared her for many a gay bike ride to school through 4 miles of it, 3 feet deep - an uncommon trick by anyone's definition. However much she may love this, we're sure she enjoys hurtling off to Greenville at 3:00 P.M. as much as any of us. And we're also sure Lynn will hurtle off to many wonderful experiences in the years to come by dint of her brain, personality, and looks.

LUCINDA CLARKE CHAPMAN

Cin and the "Hot Olds" arrive every morning in a rush of wind, leaving behind a trail of leaking oil. When this blue-eyed bundle of nerves bursts into the Senior room shouting, "Terry hasn't called yet!", everyone knows that Cindy is on deck. She spends most of her time trying to decide where her heart is - north or south. Cindy is known for her quick temper, which goes, however, as fast as it comes. Our efficient cheerleading captain can usually be found leaning over the sink putting in her contacts, or crawling around on the floor trying to find them. We'll never forget the day when we had to stop a tennis match to search for Cindy's right eye. Cindy has two great fears: subjective history tests, and the impending end of the world. But we are all sure that she will be the first one out with her machine gun when the Russians land.

look on her face and you'll forget 'em all."-

SALLY TUCK EBERT

Sally has earned the profound respect of classmates by her deep thinking and her persistent search for truth. As Chapel leader, she conveys her feelings with impressive effect. She can often be found sitting tailor-fashion on the Senior Room counter, studying, brushing her hair, or uttering devastating comments on her backroad adventures and her little brother Ace. She is a friend in need when the going gets rough, and will face up to any challenge with a hardy stamina that never fails to produce results. She has solved, neatly and economically, the problem of keeping on hand a supply of rollers to set her hair. Teachers will long remember Sally for her spelling talent (sic) and exquisite penmanship. In the years since she first came to Tatnall, she has progressed from being a "perfect angel" to an embodiment of the mischievous character of the present Senior Class.

SARA TUCKER GARRISON

Sara is one of the more controversial figures in the Senior Class. She is quick to let other people know where she stands; she makes public anyone's injustices, including her own - thus earning the dubious distinction of "Class Griper." Sara is also a clotheshorse. To every one's amazement, she wears a new outfit almost daily. She is especially addicted to wrap-around skirts, tailored blouses and coats of any description. On weekends she haunts "Dunkin' Donuts" - she has an uncontrolled passion for cream-filleds. A few years ago, Sara's dream was to own a horse; now she wants to trade that dream for a Triumph. As Editor-in-Chief of the newspaper, she has spent a large part of the year browbeating the staff into writing editorials; as Chairman of the Athletic Association she was always looking for "volunteers" to sell food at home games.

Sara is always saying, "I will never get married." From this statement and her unpredictable nature, we prophesy that she will be the Class Bride.

CONSTANCE JONES

Connifer B. Jones will NOT go down in history on the strength of her singing voice! This year the non-grey Pontiac bombs into the school lot early instead of late. You can always recognize Connie going down the hall by her distinctive footwork. Not knowing whether to sing or cry during "West Side Story," Connie managed to do both superbly. Now she yearns for her own fire escape from which to greet her Romeo. Patience and excellent hearing are two musts while listening to Connie, but her ideas are good, and her intentions are even better. Connie's summers in Rehoboth are one big whirl after another. Former summers have been spent between Rehoboth and Wilmington but Lewes seemed to hold most of Connie's attention this past summer. A day doesn't go by during which Connie doesn't gasp, "Oh, Heavens!" Her probable occupation will be a singer; no, in a social work camp. Her pet peeve is prejudiced people, although to join the crowd is sometimes a great temptation. Without Connie in our Senior Class, life would not be as much fun!

NANCY ELIZABETH LYNCH

When you see a black convertible with red interior zoom into the Tatnall lot, you know Nance is nearly here. After the rush to get to school, the slow process of getting to class begins. When she isn't roaming around Tatnall's halls, you can find her at Greenville. If, on some rare occasion, you should chance to find her at home, she can be in only one of two places: in the garage cleaning the convertible or upstairs in her penthouse with her roosters, Dr. Kildare, and Dr. Casey. Though "Grandma Lynch" still hasn't finished knitting that green cardigan, she does find time for making her own dresses and bermudas. There is one thing you can count on with Tatnall's politician and all-year-round athlete: she always gets her homework done ahead of time. Have you ever been awakened by the music of Kenny Ball or Jose Humanez? At Nancy's house this is routine.

MARGARET HILARY MARSHALL

While driving down Barley Mill Road early in the morning, you're bound to see Margie waiting for the Tatnall School bus. Our tow-headed A.F.S. student from South Africa has made a hit at Tatnall athletically as well as scholastically. Her smashing tennis serve and her enthusiam on the cheering squad equal her ease in adjusting to the strange and potent life of the American teenager. As President of the senior class, she does a good job of waking us all up in time for assembly, and we never see her without a smile on her face. Margie's passion for Doctor Kildare never allows her to miss a Thursday night show, but one American dish she can do without is lima beans. With her cheerful British accent, you can't miss Margie's voice in the halls telling us not to worry about the test because she really hasn't studied at all. When she makes a 97, we all wonder how she does it. Doctor Kildare must know quite a lot about American History. Margie's ambition as soon as she leaves the States will be to try to scrape together enough money to come back. We all hope to see her often in the years to come.

PRISCILLA RANDOLPH MAYERBERG

Although Cilla is hard to recognize from day to day because of her changing hair-color, she is always the first to arrive in the morning and one of the first to leave in the afternoon. She is distinguishable from all the other Seniors by her tiny waist. Before getting sick, we always check with Cilla on the latest development in diseases. You can always see Cilla leaving school . . if you look quickly. However, if there is a delicious smell in any room you know she has been there.

When she is not Clipping to Yale, Cilla spends most of her time collecting hearts and new cars. She will probably get married during the off-season of modeling in Europe. Cilla can usually be heard saying, "Get real," or "It's all over"; the last thing she wants to do is "slow down."

SUSAN FERGUSON MEYER

When a 5'4" blond bounds into the Senior Room and starts vibrating to "Twistin' Matilda", we know Susie has made the scene. Although her specialty is the Twist, she chose Russian ballet as a more conservative topic for her Senior Theme. As an expert on straightening hair, she is the information bureau for all Tatnall girls. We know Susie will be an American government major in college, because she was so fascinated by her High School course. Going barefoot through Windsor Castle this summer, Susie made a hit with the guards, and was a smash on the Plage with her bikini. Her career in math was brought to a spectacular end last year with a 92 on her final exam. Now Susie does believe in miracles! She has been a real spark of life in our Senior Class this year, and her popularity indicates that she has a bright future ahead.

FRAN GAIL MITCHELL

Fran's lively sense of humor and her enthusiasm for athletics hasn't been affected by three year's occupation of the bench. Although she insists she is no good, Fran can occasionally be persuaded to play a few exquisite piano solos. In French class, she is often accused of having drunk "trop de vin", and she certainly never lets the class get dull. She loses her temper only when you call her "Frances". Don't be surprised if you happen to find a white Corvair sitting in the middle of the road, because Fran hates to park her car. Even though she worked all summer as a life-guard, she got wet only once, when she had to fish a dummy--which she helped drown--out of the pool. No matter how often she sets her hair, it is usually straight. If you haven't noticed, Fran is the only Senior with braces--but she thought everyone knew. Every once in a while Fran plays hooky to see friends off to Europe. Early in the fall, the forum echoed with screams because Fran was the first "College-Inn". She took everyone's enthusiastic congratulations with aplomb.

KATHY ELIZABETH MOECKEL

Who's that girl with the book in her hand? Is it an American government book or just another novel? That's Kathy, who owns a pair of shoes to match every color scheme and twice as many pocket books. She'll solve any problem, without your even asking. Usually she is quiet unless she disagrees with you - then you are left in no doubt at all about her opinions. She loves peanut butter and is always baking cookies, even when she's on a diet. She'll drive anywhere, anytime, and never needs a ride. She belongs to the Stone Harbor Yacht Club, and doesn't own a boat. Kathy always was different. She can eat chocolate and her face will still look like peaches and cream (not to mention her famous chin); her rosy cheeks won't even fade at the prospect of a history test. She usually says "you're kidding", but we're not; and she is often found stargazing, or rather daydreaming. Her never-worry attitude will help her surmount any crisis, and we wish her the best of luck.

MARTHA CARLENE MORGAN

One of Carlene's strong points is sports. On the basketball court she is known as "dead-eye" because of her habit of sinking baskets from the center of the floor. She also excels at hockey and tennis. On the scholastic scene, she perks up classes with her wisecracks, when she is not running out of class to put her contact lenses back in place. When you ask her if she's done her homework, Carlene says, "Who, Me?"

Although she is a chronic homework procrastinator, Carlene has digested well what she has learned in languages - she ends most of her letters with Latin. Even though she is sometimes extremely quiet, you know that there are profound thoughts traveling through her mind because of the deep and occasionally abstruse philosophy she propounds. She is apt to present a picture of the typical conception of a teenager, eating popcorn and doing lessons while watching "Ben Casey." Her ambition is to be an elementary school teacher; we wish her the best of luck with her future pupils.

TANIA THURLOW

Tania brought back to school with her this fall news of a marvelous summer vacation--baby-sitting! Although she wears a silver chain bracelet to show for it, some of her tales seem pretty fantastic. One of the first comers into the Senior Room each morning, Tania can be seen, notes in hand, questioning unsuspecting Seniors on tests to be taken during the day. Nonchalant about nearly everything she does, she has become the dare-devil of the class. Her trade mark is her straight hair, the blond streaks in which she insists are the work of the sun. When not dodging the eye of the camera, Tania can be seen in Philadelphia buying some of her beautiful clothes, of which she has many. But her favorite love is the Peter, Paul and Mary Album, to which she listens for hours. Insouciance tinged with an ironical humor is Tania'a conspicuous characteristic. With her warm heart and readiness to listen to and sympathize with everyone's problems, Tania will be a success wherever she goes.

SUSAN WHITMAN

Susie arrived at Tatnall in sixth grade equipped with an astounding knowledge of the Cape and boats. Now, Susie arrives grinding the gears of a red and black Mac truck (that has to be double-clutched) and an overwhelming command of the French language, example: "Qu'est-ce que tu do?" The expression "gleep" and a whistle that can be heard from one end of the school to the other could only belong to Susie.

It is almost certain that she will make a lasting impression on the scientific world; in Biology she effected a major triumph by convincing the teacher that the roses in her cheeks were natural. Last year she lived through six after-school hours of Chemistry lab, and this year she arrives every morning wondering if Sue B. has done her Physics. At times this year she and her camera have been the bane of the Senior Class; but she mixes the serious with the mischievous as she has proved by her leadership in revising the Constitution, and her participation at Buck Hill Falls last year. A favorite occupation of hers is taking long walks, but not so long as to make it to Montana.

"And don't let anyone tell you that the Swedes are free-loving, because they're not!" This was Page's dictum after seven weeks in Sweden, bubbling over with her usual infectious enthusiasm. Any time that jazz is in the making, Page will be found sitting on the floor, completely lost to the world. Contact of any description is out of the question at these times, but if it is essential that she should be aroused, try whispering "Cezanne" in her ear; the reaction is usually violent enough to break the spell. Between hopping off to the University of Delaware and Annapolis, however, Page still has time for a cup of coffee at Greenville with us. She has been known to drink Metrecal four times in a day, and then splurge on a cheeseburger at Burger King. We believe that Page has a secret desire to become a great tennis star, but we would not be surprised, ten years from now, to find her selling programs in the Museum of Modern Art.

The Senior Will

We, the Class of 1963 being of unsound mind and body, as a result of twelve years of vain struggle to master the three R's, do hereby declare this to be our last will and Testament:

Article I

To the Faculty we bequeath 34 well-chewed thumbnails, the memory of all-girl classes, 11 appointment cards for the nearest psychiatrist, and 17 daisies pressed in the roll-book.

Article II

To the Juniors we bequeath one overworked record player (plus 7 warped records), a slightly milk-stained wall-to-wall carpet, the current affairs bulletin board, and our unused Senior Theme notecards.

Article III

To the Sophomores we bequeath the happy prospect of SATs, the courage to last through the next two years, and inflatable lifeboats to keep them out of the hot water we often managed to fall into.

Article IV

To the Freshmen we bequeath the excitement of being Upper Classmen and the patience, understanding and even temper necessary to deal with the incumbent Frosh.

Article V

To those most nearly concerned, we bequeath the following:

Susan Bakalar wills her laugh to Artie Lincoln;
Alice Baldwin leaves the 26 1/2 mile ride to Tatnall from the sticks to Buzz Hart;
Lynn Burrough leaves Brecks Lane for Mac;
To Judy Field, Cindy Chapman passes on the legacy received from Barbara Senza who inherited it from Sally Jacobs who inherited it from Emily Potts: the ability to put one foot in her mouth when the other one is already there;
Sally Ebert leaves Advanced Placement History to anyone who doesn't know the difference between bravery and foolishness;
Sara Garrison leaves her critical attitude and her bad luck to anyone who can't avoid both or either;
Connie Jones leaves her singing voice to the Glee Club;
Nancy Lynch leaves one gross of adhesive bandages to the Athletic Department;
Margie Marshall leaves George Washington to Tatnall's next AFSer;
Priscilla Mayerberg wills "Sam" to Lynne, Cindy, Dede, Gail, Ellen, and J.D.;
Susan Meyer leaves her superior art ability to next year's Art Editor;
Fran Mitchell leaves a "bouteille du vin" to next year's Senior French Class;
Kathy Moeckel leaves the Three Little Bakers to the hungrier members of the Class of 1964;
Carlene Morgan is willing to leave;
Tania Thurlow wills her accidents to any reckless driver;
Susie Whitman leaves the joys of Senior Year to Steve Lincoln;
Page Williams leaves a year's supply of Metracal to the next Tatnall student sent abroad by AFS.

The Seniors . . . . . Impressions We Have Left Behind

"I asked for them; I am proud of them; I shall miss them."--Victor B. Clarke

"Cooperative, but not officious; winsome, but no longer girlish; baffled, but never defeated."--George S. Hastings

"A scintillating bevy of vibrant personalities with 'joie de vivre'."--Marjorie Squire

"Senior girlia sont magna attractiva et ego semper gladium esse passum non flunkum." --Consul Felchum

"They start by saying, 'This is just too much', but they always finish in style." --Elizabeth Stephens

"From this group, there will doubtless emerge a defender to rank with Clarence Darrow."--James Adams

"A description of Cleopatra pops immediately into mind when I think of the girls of '63 as a composite: 'Age cannot wither, nor custom stale
Her infinite variety.' "--Linda Heindel

"In Proverbs 31:10-31 the inspired writer presents a picture of the virtuous woman. Our fondest hope is that our association at Tatnall, which has been so mutually beneficial, will assist you in attaining this noble goal."--Claude Foster

"Now that we have discovered how to get along with you, how will we ever manage to get along without you?"--Josephine Hadlock

"Gone but not forgotten."--Mona G. Hadley

"This distinguished class - the last of the all-girls - takes with it a breath of Tatnall never again to be recaptured."--Mary Christensen

"Athletes, brains, pluggers, school spirit, and fun - the Class of 1963 has its share of each. Good luck to all of you!"--Marion G. Oviatt

"May you always be able to communicate in college as well as in Library study hall." --Aline Cavanagh

"Being of a friendly nature and most compliant to the wishes (if they are harmless) of students, I forthwith take my pen in hand and write 'A sentence to the Seniors'." --H.C. Putnam

"Frightening in Chem Lab but delightful as a class. You're going to be greatly missed." --Bonnie Wood

"Un groupe tres charmant et extremement intelligent!"--J. N. Cotter

"Aim high, then $\frac{S^2}{\sqrt{5}} \cdot (u \sin^2\phi + u \cos^2\phi)\left[c \cdot \lim_{n\to\infty}\left(1+\frac{1}{n}\right)^n\right]^2 \frac{d^2+1}{d+\frac{1}{d}}$
--John V. Watchorn

"In saluting you, the first upper school class in the Beekley Building and the last all-girl class at Tatnall, I commend you for your:

GOOD LOOKS - GOOD DISPOSITIONS - GOOD COOPERATION - GOOD ATHLETIC ABILITY - GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP

Do I make you sound like paragons? Well, I meant to--you are! We miss you already."--Ann Cloward

"Farewell, a word that must be and hath been—a sound which makes us linger—yet—farewell."

Varsity Football

The first Varsity football team finished its season with a 2-4 record. After consecutive defeats by Archmere and Tower Hill, the team rallied against Friends School for its first victory 20-18. Next year, with the addition of seniors, we feel sure that the team will be a close contender for Independent League honors.

Cheerleaders

The cheerleaders were a new addition to the Tatnall School this year. Pep rallies were held on Friday nights before the big games, and many students came to cheer for our team around the bonfire. More important, however, the group has certainly helped to encourage students, parents, and faculty members to attend the games. The girls did a wonderful job of boosting school spirit at Tatnall throughout the entire year.

Varsity Hockey

This year the Varsity and JV hockey teams, coached by Mrs. Miller and cheered on by captains Nancy Lynch and Pat Pryor, completed a fairly successful varsity season with 4 wins, 2 losses and 1 tie. The JV won 5 and lost 2 games, while the Midgets, under Mrs. Reese's guidance, completed their fourth undefeated season. Team spirit rose throughout the season and reached a notable peak during the last game--against the faculty men.

Varsity Wrestling

Wrestling is now bigger than ever. Under the superb guidance of Mr. Freibott and Mr. Stone, our young team, which includes many seventh, eighth and ninth grade boys, participated in a full varsity schedule. We've had wins over Westtown and Friends, and have given Tower Hill, St. Andrew's and A. I. duPont a tough time. Needless to say, watch out next year!

J.V. Basketball

Coached by Mr. Fetterman, the J. V. basketball team has compiled a 3 and 2 record this season. This is commendable considering this is the boys' first year in J. V. basketball, but we are looking forward to a better record next year.

Varsity Basketball

The girls' basketball team this year has been most successful. Although no more than a minimum number of girls came out for the sport, their enthusiasm and skills made up for the deficiency in numbers. These girls have been the pioneers for girls' basketball at Tatnall and have laid the groundwork for an excellent tradition.

The Student Council

Chief among the Student Council's tasks this year was the further revision of the Student Association's Constitution. In addition, the Council initiated a new financial plan which assures a more effective allotment and disbursal of funds. The Council hopes to continue with the reorganization of election methods to create more participation among members of the Association. This spring, the Council established a temporary A.F.S. committee, with the intention of making it a permanent standing committee next year. The officers of the Council are deeply grateful for the sincere interest and cooperation of the student body and the faculty throughout the year.

Athletic Association

The Tatnall Athletic Association this year has seen a new Tatnall School spirit. This year was a first: our football team entered Varsity competition. At the same time came the cheerleading squad which, besides kindling the pep-rally fires, organized enthusiasm at games.

Chapel Committee

This year the Tuesday morning services presented by the Chapel Committee have been based on various sources in addition to the Bible. Student participation has been good, and we hope the services have been valuable.

LEFT TO RIGHT: Mike Van Sciver, Peter Troth, J. D. Lee, Judy Field, Lynn Burrough, chairman.
Absent: Nancy Naylor.

Social Committee

The Social Committee has attempted new social activities this year, and the support has been good. Ninety people attended the Thanksgiving Dance, and we made $96 on the Christmas Dance. Our scattered meetings usually took place in Mrs. Oviatt's office, and the treasurer's report was often given between bites of a sandwich. While some of us had to spend afternoons before each dance buying 32 quarts of pink lemonade, or seventeen dozen cookies from the Three Little Bakers, it was worth all the worry when we saw that the students really enjoyed our efforts.

Welfare Committee

The Welfare Committee this year has carried on the traditional activities of collecting canned goods for St. Michael's Day Nursery, buying Christmas presents for needy children, decorating the Christmas tree for the Childrens' Bureau, participating in the Junior Red Cross drive, and sending about twelve volunteer workers to the Delaware Hospital.

The Constitution has been revised, and the money for the Welfare activities has been included in the tuition. Accordingly, the Welfare Committee thought students would feel more personally involved if they gave directly to a charity. Therefore, at Christmas the students gave toward the Twenty-five Neediest Families.

Publicity Committee

The function of the Publicity Committee is to keep the Student Bulletin Board up to date and in order, and to keep the student body informed of the various events planned by all school agencies by means of signs and posters. We work closely with all other committees and clubs and in differing art mediums to fulfill this role.

Triangle Staff

This year has been a hectic one, what with a new publisher-photographer and a green staff. The staff worked well together, and somehow managed almost successfully to meet the four deadlines. Activities period on Wednesday was never dull. There were always cartoons to draw and little red plastic rectangles to place on big checkered layout pages. There were candids to take, ads to account for, and senior paragraphs to rewrite. Somehow, out of the chaos--and under Mrs. Hadlock's stern direction--we managed to put together what we hope will be the best TRIANGLE ever!

The Hornet

This is the second year of the HORNET's publication since the TATNALL TIMES. Four correspondents and one junior have been added to the '62-'63 staff. "The Bees' Sting" has been a new addition to the paper this year. Other new columns have been there, written by teachers and students. The three issues of '61-'62 have increased to four.

Glee Club

Under the able direction of Mrs. Parks and accompanied by Mrs. Aldred at the piano, this year's Glee Club was the largest in Tatnall's history. They have done an excellent job of singing at Christmas, Easter, and on other special occasions.

Three Arts Club

The Three Arts Club encompasses three of the performing arts: acting, dancing, and singing. This year, Mr. Clarke, the club's sponsor, scheduled many different shows in which all three performing arts were employed. To include the dancing and singing, Mr. Clarke scheduled two talent shows, which were sponsored by the club and open to the entire student body. The drama portion of the club's activities was stressed this year. Three one-act workshop productions were presented in the Friday assembly periods. The major production of the year, presented in the April Showcase '63, was LIFE WITH FATHER.

Absent from picture: Rob Hessler.

Junior Three Arts Club

This year the Junior Three Arts Club, made up of seventh and eighth graders and under the direction of Mr. Linn, presented two one-act plays. The first, given at the annual Christmas program for the upper school, was a repeat performance of last year's comedy by Mr. Putnam, "Who Invented Christmas Trees?" or "One Man's Meat May Be Another Man's Poison". The second was "Shall We Join the Ladies?", a murder mystery produced in the spring.

Science Club

The membership of the Science Club is drawn from the Seventh and Eighth Grades. It began the year by dividing into two groups: Biology and Chemistry. Each discussed and completed several projects, including chicken breeding, tree stunting, dissecting, and leaf and chemical experiments. A hamster was scheduled for an operation when he suddenly disappeared and was never heard of again. Both groups have seen movies pertaining to their goals.

SEATED: Margaret Marshall. STANDING, left to right: Alice Baldwin, Mac Shoemaker, Mrs. Stephens, Mr. Linn, Sally Ebert. Missing from picture: Robert Frost, President.

The club is sponsored by Mr. Victor Clarke, and is under the mechanical direction of Bill Brooks, Jr. We meet each week during the assigned club period. During the first semester, the members tore down the engine of Mr. Clarks's 1932 Packard. They also helped Bill to rebuild the school Jeep, and tuned up several faculty-owned cars. Mr. Clarke took the Club to Antique Auto shows in Kennett Square and Hershey, Pennsylvania.

Library Squad

When books first arrive
It's scramble and scurry,
It's like a bee-hive
With bustle and hurry.

We first stamp the book
And then we shellac,
And when we are done
You can't tell front from back.

The next thing we do
Is to pocket the cards-
We're messed up with glue
And use Scotch tape by yards.

Mrs. Cavanagh tells us
To take care of the books
And not get them dirty-
You'll spoil their good looks.

Then there's Mrs. Germond
With her busy typewriter
Who tells us to put
The bookcovers on tighter.

So we work and we slave
And get sleepy and nod. . .
And that's what it's like
On the Library Squad.
